Alex Schuman

Deputy Regional Director, ADL New England
(Co-Chair)

Alex is deputy regional director at ADL New England (the Anti-Defamation League), where she helps lead regional efforts to combat antisemitism and hate; strengthen partnerships with civic, corporate, and community leaders; and advance initiatives that promote a more just and inclusive society.

Previously, Alex spent more than 15 years as a corporate sustainability and social impact leader across biopharma, life sciences, and technology industries. She built two corporate sustainability functions and advised boards and executive leadership teams on complex global challenges at the intersection of business, reputation, and societal impact. Her work has strengthened ESG performance and delivered measurable community impact—including founding a $10 million corporate foundation. Alex also serves as co-chair of Advisory Board of the Equality Fund at the Boston Foundation.

Alex brings deep personal commitment to her work at ADL as the granddaughter of a Holocaust survivor. She lives in Boston with her wife Jaclyn and their cats Binx and Hermione.
