We are happy to announce the launch of the Anna Faith Jones & Frieda Garcia Women of Color Leadership Circle, facilitated by Kelly Bates, President, and Aba Taylor, Racial Equity & Training Practice Lead of Interaction Institute for Social Change (IISC). This program, designed by a team of women of color leaders, is inspired by the friendship, vision and close partnership of two groundbreaking women of color leaders: Anna Faith Jones and Frieda Garcia, the former President/CEO and Board Chair of the Boston Foundation.

The WOC Leadership Circle is a six-month cohort program that honors the leadership, strength, and resilience of women of color who do incredible work within their communities and provide them with a cherished space to share challenges and opportunities. We envision the Women of Color Leadership Circle as a safe space for belonging, fellowship, learning, unlearning, self-care, and restoration, where participants can share their challenges and frustrations and learn and grow from each other's experiences.

Program Offerings

- Six monthly day-long sessions for women of color to develop professionally
- Nine hours of executive coaching for each participant

Program Goals

- Build networks, deepen connections, nurture leaders and communities, and foster collaboration
- Provide professional development support that is responsive to the experiences of women of color leaders in the nonprofit sector
- Raise visibility of women of color leaders who are often overlooked
- Support women of color leaders to further develop their leadership and professional goals
- Create a safe space for fellowship, belonging, learning, and self-care
