

Andrew Choe / Abilities Dance

Andrew Choe is a composer, pianist, and the Director of Music and Operations at Abilities Dance Boston. Andrew has created numerous scores with various artists and organizations, including three original ballets and several installments, productions, and other forms of collaboration. His works have been featured in the MFA Boston, Isabella Gardner Museum, WBUR Boston, The Cultural Equity Incubator, and more. Andrew collaborates and creates art as a means of exploration, identity, and healing.

Abilities Dance Boston is a disabled performing company centered on disrupting antiquated beliefs and promoting intersectional disability rights. They consist of artists that represent a variety of diverse identities within and outside of the disabled community. They perform in prestigious venues such as the MFA, Peabody Essex Museum, Boston University, and more to challenge who gets to be represented on stage and show what intersecting identities can manifest in this work.
