Yung-Chi Sung is a minority and immigrant artist dedicated to the spiritual arts of Chinese Calligraphy and Tai Chi. Inspired by his parents' practice of these traditional forms, he has innovatively fused them into "Tai Chi Calligraphy," a unique art form that embodies balance, harmony, and cultural connection.

With a Ph.D. in Educational Psychology and a rich career in education and research, Yung-Chi aims to promote cultural understanding and mindfulness through his art. His work has been recognized with the Cambridge Arts for Health Grant and numerous invitations to demonstrate his calligraphy at community events. As the founder of Yuan3 Chih4 Education, Inc., a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization, Yung-Chi continues to enrich the artistic landscape of Boston by integrating tradition with modernity and fostering an appreciation for diverse cultural heritages.
